Website Terms of Use

Our website terms

These Website Terms of Use explain the terms that apply when you access or use the BlindSpot Solutions website.

By using this website, you agree to these terms. If you do not agree with them, you should stop using the website. These terms are intended to make clear what you can expect from us, what we expect from you, and how content, services, and interactions on the website are managed.

Using our website

Our website is provided for general information and personal use. We may update, change, remove, or improve content at any time without notice.

When using our website, you agree to do so lawfully and respectfully. You must not use the website in a way that disrupts access for other users, interferes with the operation or security of the site, or infringes the rights, privacy, or safety of others. If these terms are breached, we may suspend or restrict access to the website without notice.

Website content and intellectual property

Unless otherwise stated, the content on this website, including text, graphics, images, logos, branding, and other materials, is owned by or licensed to BlindSpot Solutions Pty Ltd and is protected by copyright and other intellectual property laws.

You may view and use the content for personal, non-commercial purposes only. You must not copy, reproduce, republish, distribute, adapt, or share website content without our prior written permission, unless permitted by law.

Information you submit to us

If you submit content to us through the website, such as comments, feedback, enquiries, or other material, you confirm that you have the right to provide it and that it does not contain anything unlawful, defamatory, offensive, or misleading.

By submitting content, you give BlindSpot Solutions a non-exclusive, royalty-free right to use, review, store, and respond to that content in connection with our business and website operations.

Accuracy, availability, and reliance

We aim to keep the information on our website accurate, current, and useful. However, website content is provided on an “as is” basis, and we do not guarantee that it will always be complete, accurate, reliable, or available without interruption.

You are responsible for assessing whether any information, services, or resources on this website are suitable for your needs. To the extent permitted by law, BlindSpot Solutions is not liable for loss or damage arising from the use of, or reliance on, this website or its content, including indirect or consequential loss.

Links to other websites

Our website may include links to third-party websites for convenience or reference. These links do not mean that BlindSpot Solutions endorses or controls those websites.

We are not responsible for the content, availability, security, or practices of third-party websites. If you visit another website from a link on our site, you should review that website’s own terms and privacy policy.

Privacy

Your use of our website is also subject to our Privacy Policy, which explains how we collect, use, store, and protect personal information.

BlindSpot Solutions

Website Terms of Use

Where personal information is provided through the website, it will be handled in line with that policy.

Changes to these terms

We may update these Website Terms of Use from time to time to reflect changes to our website, services, legal obligations, or business practices.

Any updated terms will take effect once they are published on this website. By continuing to use the site after changes are posted, you accept the updated terms.

Governing law

These Website Terms of Use are governed by the laws of Australia.

Any dispute relating to the website or these terms will be handled in the courts of Australia.

Contact us

If you have any questions about these Website Terms of Use, please contact BlindSpot Solutions Pty Ltd via www.blindspot.solutions or accessibility@blindspot.solutions.

We are committed to maintaining a website that is clear, respectful, accessible, and useful for the people who use it.
